“We don’t build strong spiritual muscles without strong challenges in life,” shares Dalton. “These roadblocks and heartaches become catalysts for change and the way forward. What appears to stand in the way becomes the way... “What Don’t Kill Ya” makes you strong.”

The country icon continues to tour year-round and has recently been added to the 2025 Country Music Cruise lineup, which sails from January 19–26, 2025, with Dalton, John Michael Montgomery, Deana Carter, The Bellamy Brothers, and many more.

Dalton signed with CBS Records in 1979 as an outlaw country artist. She hit the Top 20 that year with “Crazy Blue Eyes” and amassed 16 Top 20 songs. Dalton has received several notable awards, including a certified Platinum record as the only female duet on Willie Nelson’s album, ‘Half Nelson.’ She was also awarded the highest award from the boards of Strictly Country Magazine and the Spirit Awards (one of only four times in 25 years the award was given out) for her independent CD ‘Last Wild Place Anthology.’ Dalton is a 2017 inductee of the North American Country Music Association International Hall of Fame, and most recently, she received a Lifetime Achievement Award from the Josie Awards – the largest independent music awards show in the country.

About Lacy J. Dalton:

First hitting the Country Top–20 in 1979 with “Crazy Blue Eyes,” Dalton was one of the most successful female vocalists of the format during the 80s with the CMA–nominated anthem “16th Avenue,” as well as hits like “Takin’ It Easy,” “Everybody Makes Mistakes,” “Hillbilly Girl With The Blues,” and “Black Coffee.” She collaborated with Country Music Hall of Fame members such as Bobby Bare, Glen Campbell, Willie Nelson, and George Jones during her career. She toured with outlaws like Hank Williams Jr. when it was very unusual for a woman to do so. She also toured for a long time with Willie Nelson and was the only female on his ‘Half Nelson’ album, which included duets with Ray Charles, Merle Haggard, Carlos Santana, and Neil Young.

Her most recent recorded work is the four–song EP ‘Scarecrow’ which is now available on all streaming music sites, and her single, “Devil By A Different Name.” In November, her first studio recording, “The Jill Croston Album,” was made available for streaming for the first time since it was initially released in 1978.
